Dear Louise

I discussed Prof Eljamel with the Trust Medical Director, Dr Russell by phone a short while ago. I informed Dr Russell that we now had three patient complaints regarding potential wrong level / incorrect site surgery and also that we would inform the GMC of the most recent (new) complaint which they may not yet be aware of.

Dr Russell confirmed that Trust had completed a retrospective review of Prof Eljamel's patients and that they had found no additional cases which were of concern. A number of these were patients who had had their procedures performed in BMI and were now attending the NHS pain clinic.

Based on this information I do not believe we need to do a retrospective review of all his BMI patients - a number of whom would have been reviewed by the Trust in any case.

Kind regards,

Mark.
