Dear Sam

Thank you for your email about your current status. I was aware of your retirement from NHS practice. Given this circumstance, and after discussion with colleagues, I do not believe that it would be appropriate to continue your Honorary contract to allow teaching or other activity at present.

I am aware of the very close involvement you have had, over a significant number of years with neuroscience research at Ninewells and I am very grateful to you for this support. I think that maintaining an informal link in relation to some of this activity would, of course, remain appropriate without sustaining an Honorary contract.

With best wishes

John
